DETAILED ACTION

Specification

A substitute specification in proper idiomatic English and in compliance with 37 CFR 1.52(a) and (b) is required. The substitute specification filed must be accompanied by a statement that it contains no new matter. At a minimum replace each instance of the word "actor" with "actuator" or something similar which better describes the piezoelectric component.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors. For example, the word "actor" is used to describe a piezoelectric device. "Actuator" is more appropriate. Claim

Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 2834

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by any of Montgomery (US 5,116,908), Hase (US 5,557,954 and 5,675,886), Harris et al. (US 6,135,234), d'Agnolo (US 4,174,799) or Jendritza et al., in their article entitled Piezopower, and under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ngo (US 6,265,810 B1). Each shows an elastic hollow body into which holes are made. Montgomery is exemplary (fig. 4), his elastic hollow body is 40 and it has holes 45. Whether the body is intended for use as containment for an actuator as Montgomery shows is not further limiting to the structure itself as claimed and therefore this carries no patentable weight. It has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from a prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations. Ex parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (1987). Regarding how the device is made, this too lacks patentable weight. The method of forming the device is not germane to the issue of patentability for the device itself.

Allowable Subject Matter

Art Unit: 2834

Claims 1-10 and 13-20 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The prior art fails to show or fairly suggest, singly or in combination, a housing for a piezoelectric actuator which has dumbbell shaped holes punched in it.

Claim 12 has not been considered as it has been non-elected in paper 10 in response to the restriction requirement of paper 8.
